thee each day. As we sail life's rug - ged sea

O How - ard we sing of thee
O How - ard we'll sing of thee

Dear Alumni:

Could you see the campus of Old Howard this morning your hearts would rejoice. The grass is so green and the young leaves of the trees so tender in tint. The students go down the long walk, or around the oval, at the call of the new bell. Gardeners are at work on the lawns and in the new park at the entrance gate, —Georgia Avenue and Howard Place.

A new hope, a new sense of great advance is in the hearts of all. Hark! The new bell rings! Those notes are but suggestive of the new call of your Alma Mater. You have partially forgotten her, but she does not forget you. Your successes are her successes; your sorrows, her sorrows.

Some of you have been away for long. She invites you home. She would tell you of her plans for a greater Howard and invite your help in accomplishing those plans. If all her children will rally to her help now, the effect in influence, prestige, and power will be heralded afar. Give her your help! Sing her songs! Come home to her this year!

Most sincerely yours,

J. Stanley Durkee.

President.
